MR. REID

DEDICATION

Literature, more than any other subject, is a study of people and ideas; we have learned over the past year that this analysis is a long journey to the innermost thoughts and emotions of the individual. In a travel of so many diverging paths, surely it is easy for the young, impetuous student to wander far astray. That is why we are so thankful for the mature guidance of Mr. Reid—for with wisdom ripened with many years of experience, he has been able to show us the goodness in Lady Macbeth, the righteousness in Antigone, and perhaps even the weaknesses in ourselves. Yet, just how appreciative are we for his superb guidance? How can we express our appreciation deeply enough? Certainly, our thanks are great, and yet they can be measured no more easily than the beauty of a touching memory.

Mr. Reid, you have not only been a light to our understanding, but, indeed, a true paragon of scholarship and humility. We wonder if the simple, sincere "we thank you" can suffice.

Yes, we have come a long way since September, and still it is just a beginning, "as with a dream interpreted by one still sleeping, the interpretation is only the next room of the dream."

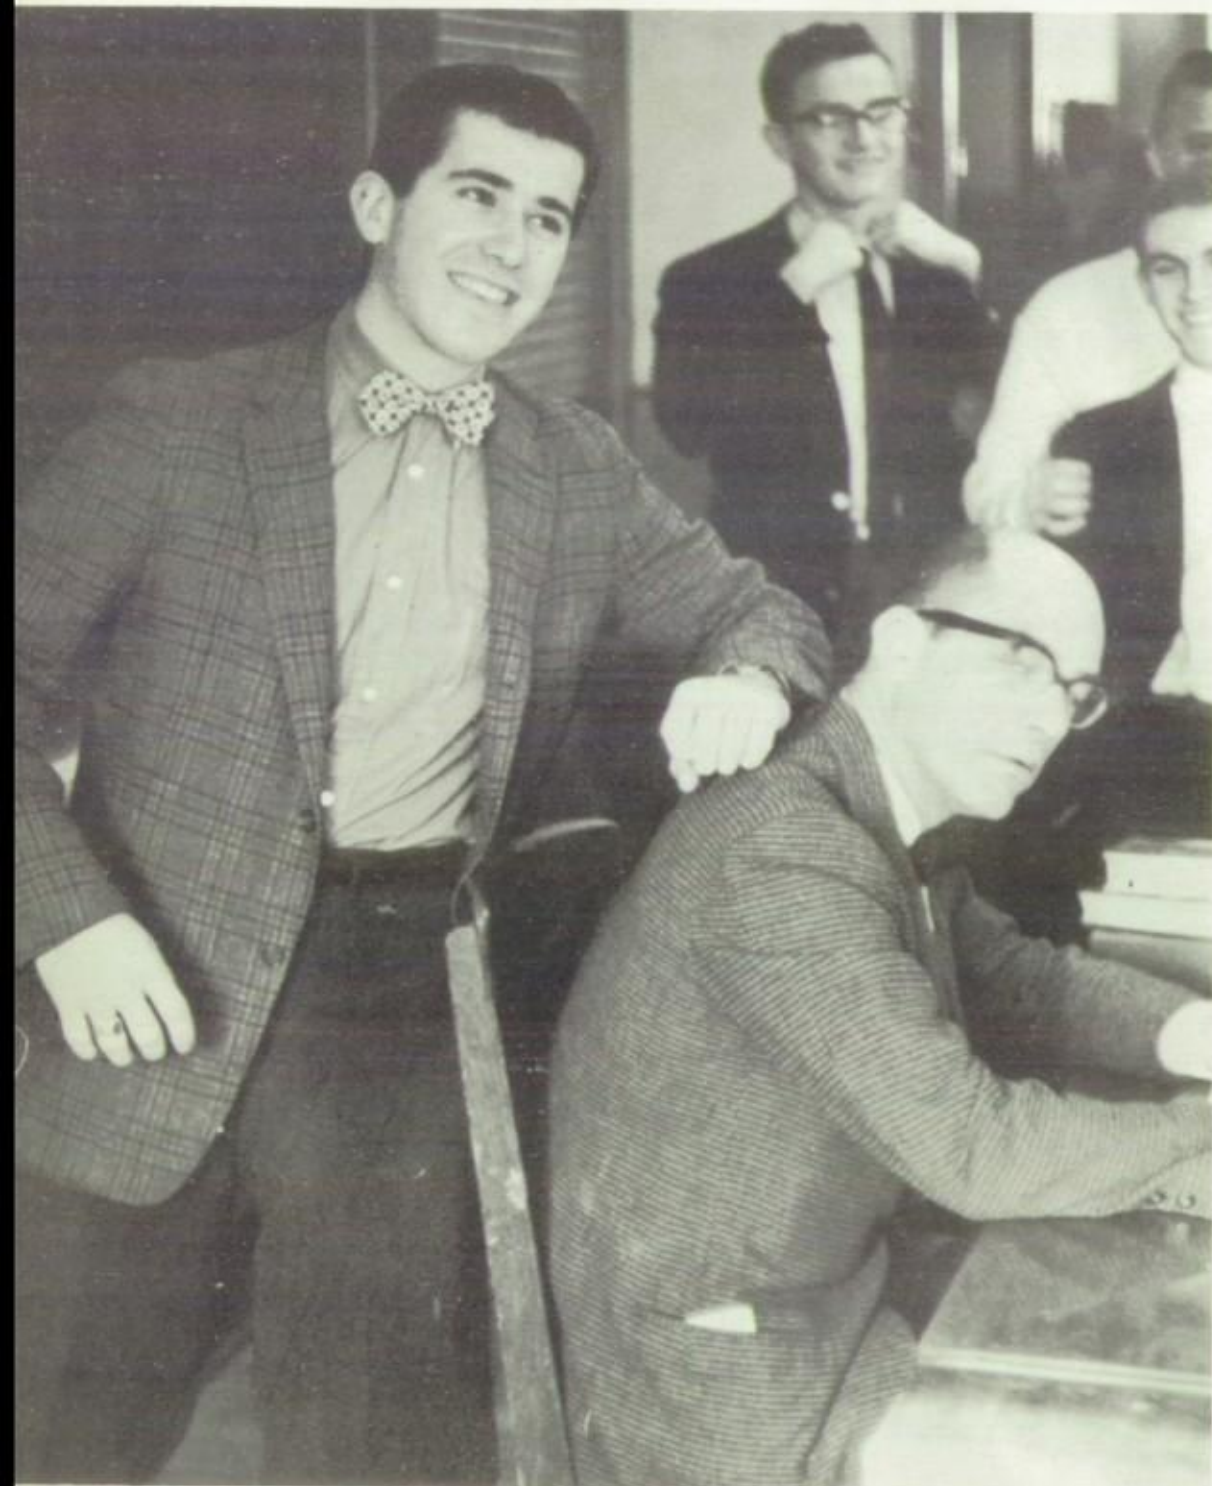

Doctor Dwork.

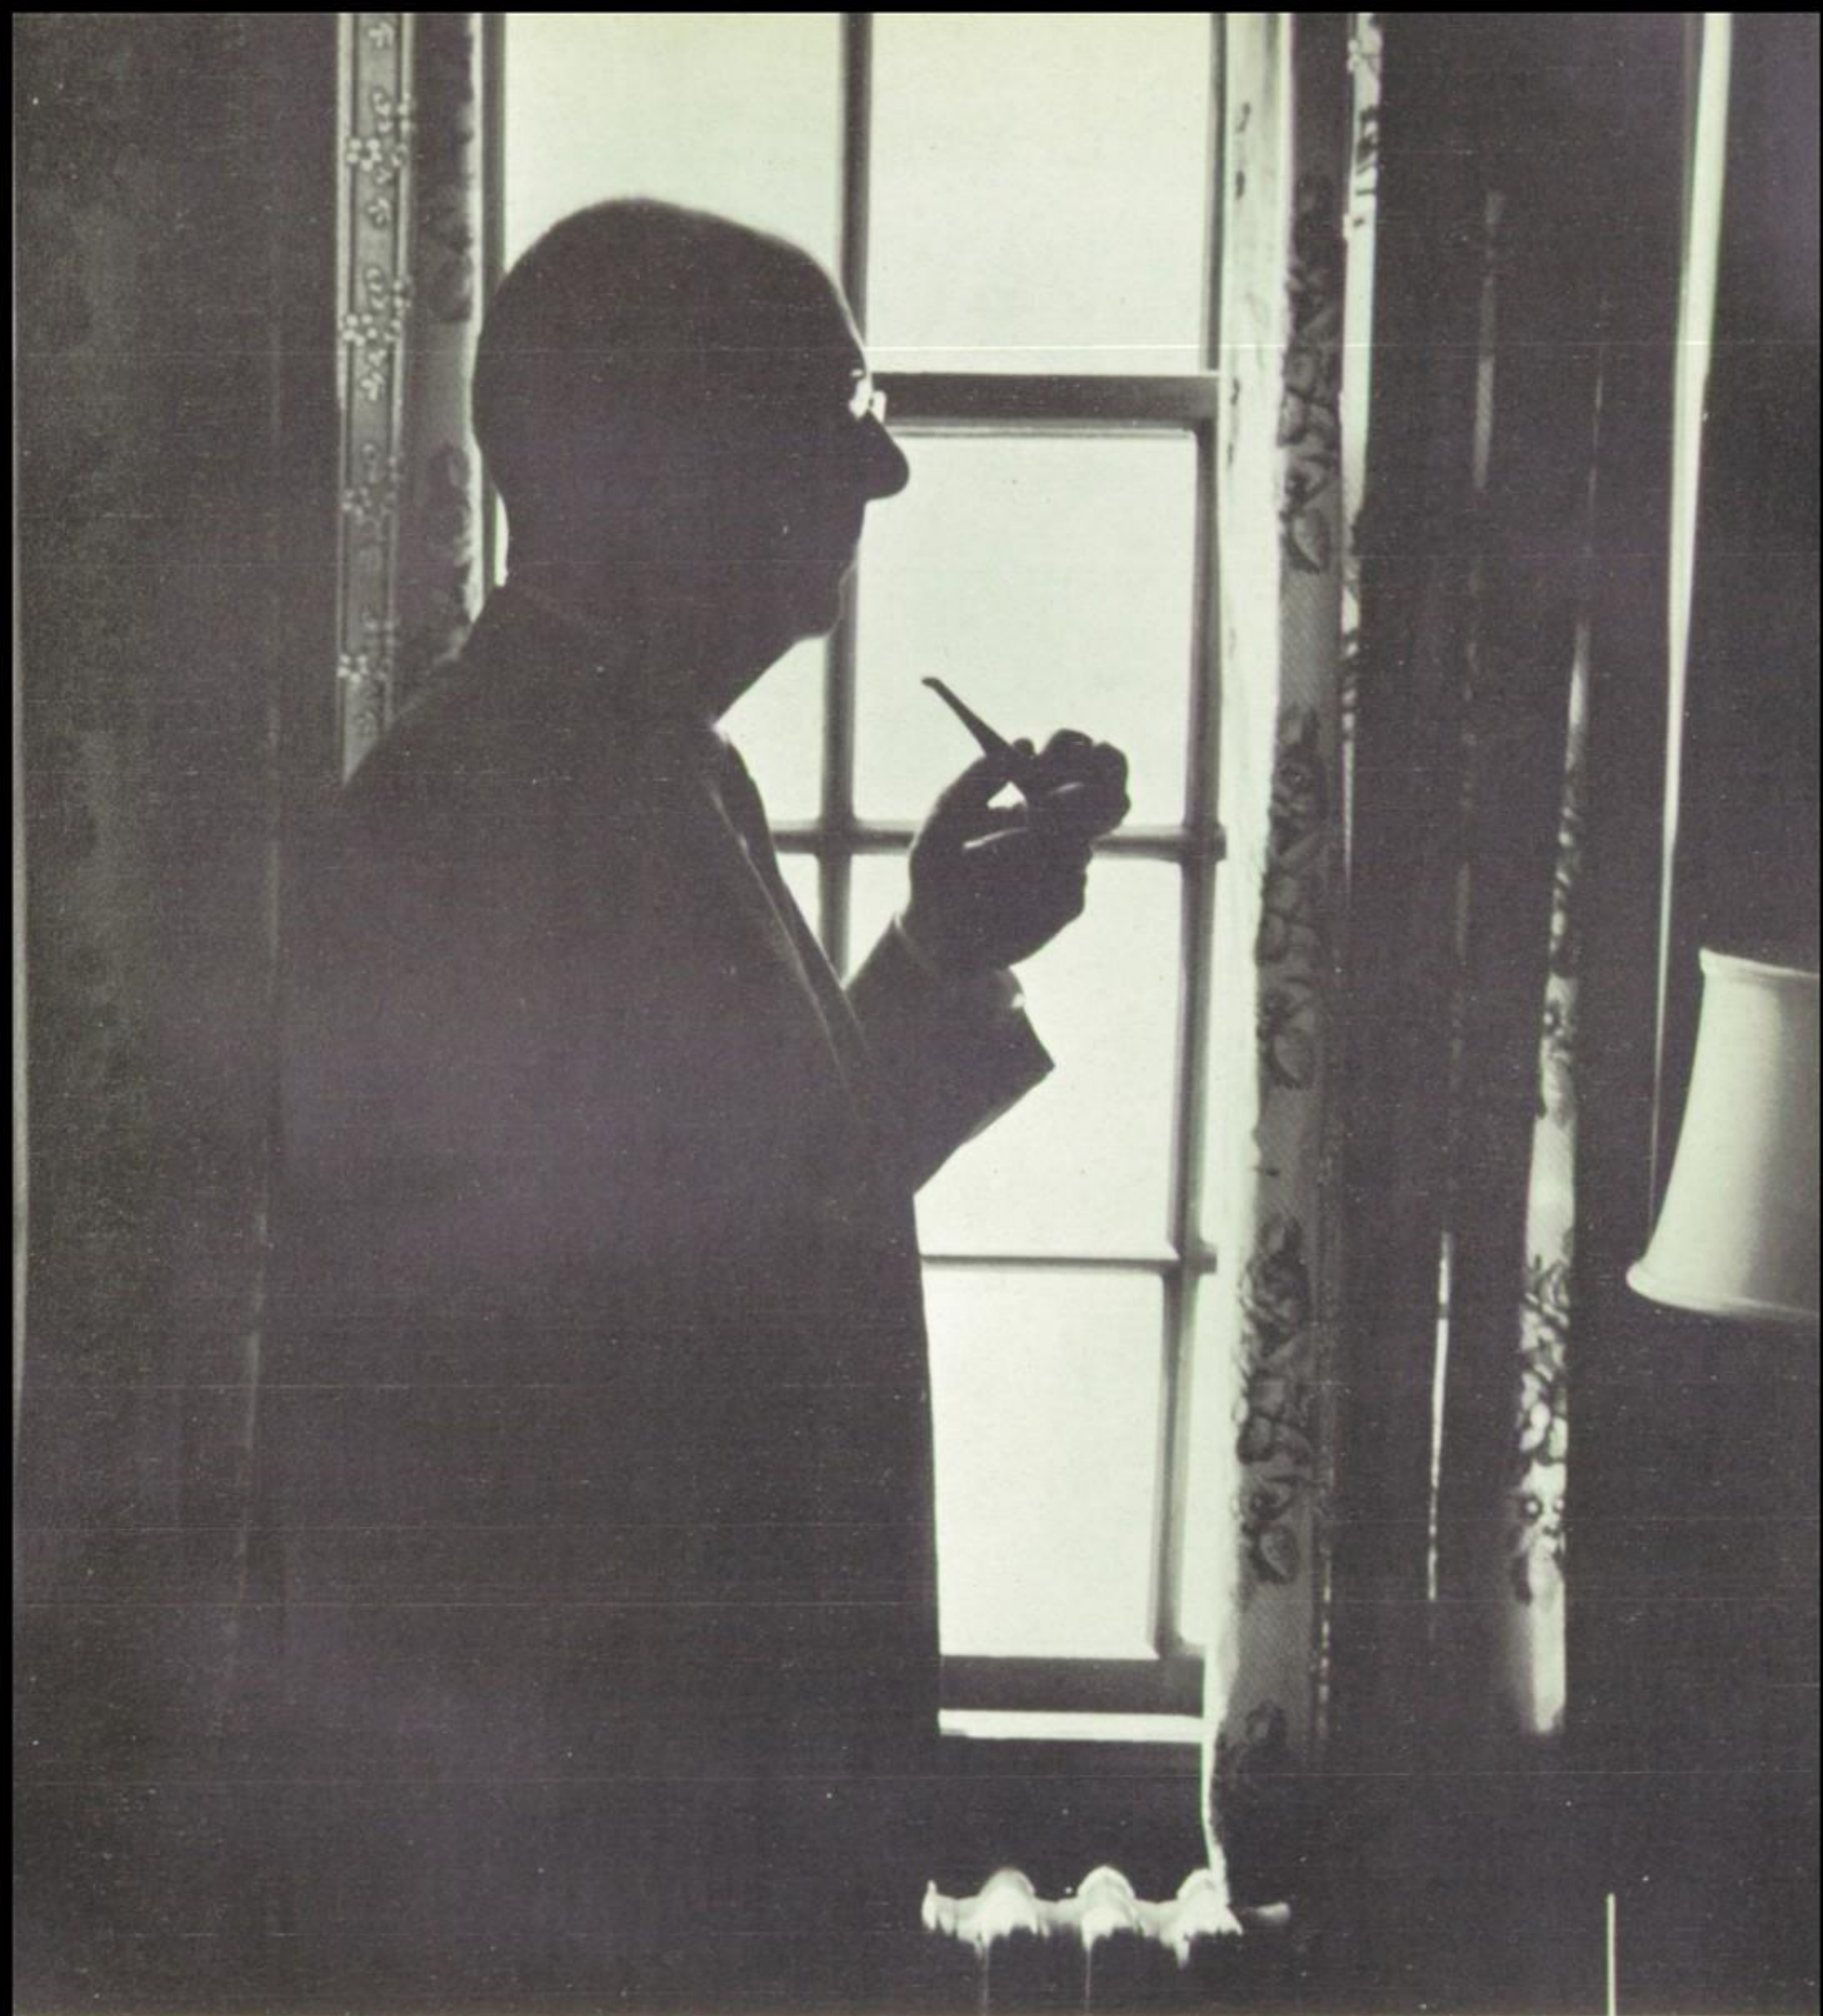

One more point, sir!

Are you trying to be funny?

Our prexy . . . and again . . . and again.

*"I count myself in nothing else so happy
As in a soul remembering my good friends;"*

RICHARD II, Act II, Scene 3

Many things, personalities, and incidents have high-lighted 1963 for our form, and have made our Sixth Form year the great experience that it has been.

Nothing, however, is as important to a class as good leadership, and in the Sixth Form, we were very fortunate. Jim O'Brasky, President of the Student Council, did an excellent job of running the Council as an efficient, and effective organization. As President of the Sixth Form, Chris Komisarjevsky helped to lead our class to great heights of accomplishment.

This year the class has succeeded not only as individuals, but also as a whole: every member of the class has been accepted at college; our Form did better on the College Entrance Examination Boards than any class at Hopkins during the last ten years; and, according to Headmaster F. Allen Sherk, the class of '63 has given the school outstanding leaders in all phases of school life.

"I am very proud to announce that this year the college poll was won by number 9, Richard Aaronson. This is WHGS, New Haven, Connecticut, Mr. Sherk signing off."

Richard Aaronson, Allen Walker, James Learned, and Jonathan Huie applied to Wesleyan, Amherst, Lehigh, and MIT, respectively, for early admissions. Each one of these outstanding students was accepted before the Christmas vacation with Rick Aaronson being the first. They led the flock and now everyone else has successfully followed behind.

Individuals in the class also received some conspicuous honors. Jim O'Brasky, for instance, was presented with an Honorary Harvard College National Scholarship which topped off Jim's honors, making him the all-around boy to be honored all-around. Earlier in the year Jim, who was Captain of the Wrestling Team, won First Place in the 110-pound weight class in Connecticut competition, and went on to place second in his weight class in all of New England.

The RAZOR of 1963 has done a great deal which it has not been able to accomplish in other years (no one really knows how.) In spite of the usual heated discussions over assignments, missed deadlines, frantic last-minute revisions, exasperating paste-ups and headline writing, and countless trips to the printers and engravers, the RAZOR was a great success.

In addition to unusual features, such as the "Hopkins Coloring Book", and big news scoops, such as the Gesler gift of rare books to the Hopkins library, the RAZOR has hit several other high points during the year. Perhaps the most impressive was the eight-page issue which was put out in April. On a special page, the RAZOR paid tribute to Mr. F. Allen Sherk for his ten years of outstanding service to the school as Headmaster. In the same issue was a page telling about Hoang Van Do, the Vietnamese boy whom the Student Body adopted through the Foster Parent's Plan.

In recognition of the hard work and excellent paper that was produced, the National Scholastic Press Association awarded the RAZOR of '62-'63 the rating of Medalist, the highest possible rating.

On the night of the record hop of April 20th, Hopkins procured its first Ancient History exhibit, a mummy. To the great consternation of all present, in the corner of Townsend auditorium by the rear exit there lay a white sheet wrapped in the shape of a . . . Dick Ferguson? . . . perhaps!

Allen Walker, Tom Goodrich, and Chris Komisarjevsky had wrapped Dick up in the narrow white cloth which is used to cover the water pitchers on the shelf in the dining room during the night. They bound Dick in the sheet so tightly that he couldn't move; and then proceeded to carry "stiff" Dick out of the dining room, place him on the floor of the auditorium, and walk out and leave him there. There Dick lay mummified for a long time under the curious eyes of the students and the scrutinous eyes of the faculty.

"Deadline is the end of this week."

Screams and the running of feet are heard as the Pantagraph editors — Al Walker, Chris Komisarjevsky, Bob DeLucia, and Jim Nowak — run to write copy and take pictures. All of a sudden the end is here, and there is still paste up to be done and dummies to be finished. There is a joke about editors which is also appropriate for the Pantagraph staff . . . a man is standing at the desk of an editor and the editor is saying, "Of course I want it today; if I wanted it tomorrow, I would have given it to you tomorrow!"

The bell marking the end of second period rings, and all over the school Sixth Former's voices can be heard to say, "Maybe the mail has come; let's go check our mailboxes!"

As usual almost all of the mailboxes are empty, but also as usual two of them contain letters. Dick Ferguson and Tom Goodrich have received such profusely perfumed letters that the odor has reached all the way to Miss Lovig's office. These odoriferous letters, which begin "Ma Cherie . . .", are all from the same "Mademoiselle," Ann ardis. With all due respect for Ann these letters are a joke just so that the mailboxes can be used; but they sure do create a disturbance in the office!

There were many outstanding features about the Glee Club of '62-'63. The most important was, of course, that it sang well — because each member enjoyed singing. In it's music there was a personality that is acquired only through real enthusiasm.

The group was especially fortunate in having an unusual number of of opportunities to perform; including two music assemblies, the Glee Club sang on eight different occasions.

For the Christmas concert at Battell Chapel, the Glee Club sang "Carol of the Bells", "Coventry Carol", and "See that Babe"; with the Day Prospect Hill Choir they sang "Glory to God in the Highest" by Randall Thompson, "Song of Mary", and "Ding Dong Merrily on High".

At the other performances the Glee Club presented "Give Ear, Oh Lord" by Heinrich Schutz, "sam was a man" from a poem by e.e. cummings, "Water Boy", "Joshua", and "Humble", with Peter Beeson singing the solo.

For the late spring concert with Day Prospect Hill, "Ride the Chariot" was added with Tom Goodrich, Dick Ferguson, and Keith Cuunningham singing the solos.

At the end of the season, Mr. Richmann found that the tapes that were taken at different appearances during the year of such high quality that the group could put out a record — HOPKINS SINGS. On this record are selections from the Glee Club, the Harmonaires, and the Junior Glee Club.

The officers of the Glee Club were: Tom Goodrich, President; Dick Ferguson and Keith Cunningham, Librarians; Dana Blanchard, Stage Manager; and Paul Tulchin, Manager.

For the affirmative —

"Be it resolved that Hopkins become a coeducational instit . . ."

"But it already is! There were two girls in the student productions at Christmas time!"

At the Thursday Christmas music assembly there were two girls — Christine Komisarjevsky and Tammy Goodrich, better known as the "Lemon Sisters." "There were never such . . . sisters . . ." and there never were. Tom, big Tom, in a blue sweater belonging to his mother and Chris in a . . . well, er . . . um . . . a . . . belonging to his sister. Well, enough for those two, now on to another "female" member of the student body — Passion Beeson. Wow! What an unusual figure! Art Bogen and Peter Beeson gave the rest of us a lecture, a picture story, on how to "pick up" a girl. Sophisticated and smooth, hoody and aggressive, meek and shy, Art always managed to show us how to "get a date."

Several weeks before Spring Vacation, Mr. Sherk told the students that the next day, a Friday, everyone should wear water-proof shoes, and old clothes to school. There was a great deal of speculation on what Mr. Sherk was planning, but it remained a tight secret — even through the music assembly. The variety of wearing apparel was interesting in itself. Outstanding for his . . . unusual (?) outfit was "Touch" Gordon, who wore a stunning pair of foul-weather-gear pants (with his necktie hanging outside the high front), and a wide-brimmed straw hat in the latest fashion of somewhere or other. At the end of the music assembly, Mr. Sherk announced that there would be a Treasure Hunt for the next few hours. There were clues hidden all over the campus. (There was a separate set of clues for the Junior School.)

The first clue was given by Mr. Sherk from the roof of Lovell Hall, and from there — chaos, but we all enjoyed it!

"Bonjour, mes amis. Je commence." Thus began one of the few French talks that was ever given. In the rather unusual attire of an oversized sweat-suit belonging to Mr. Macdermott, and augmented by a large pillow and several balloons stuffed into it in appropriate places, Frank Loehmann spoke — in French — on the various aspects of wrestling.

This year, for the first time at Hopkins, our school has a "Varsity" mathematics team. This team plays in its very own league — The Greater New Haven Mathematics League. For the first contest of the season it became champion, taking first place over many other schools in the Greater New Haven area. For each of these contests we, along with the other secondary schools, send two Sixth Formers, two Fifth Formers, and one Fourth Former. One contest won; many more yet to be won. Good Luck!

"We're just going to do a little number for you now." With this innocent enough sounding remark, a wild group consisting of Keith Cunningham, Pete Beeson, Jim Seymour, and Jim Walker tore into a swinging version of one of the latest hit songs. While the assembly was aware that something was going on, no one was prepared for what he saw next. From underneath the stage came three sleepy-looking Sixth Formers — Dick Ferguson, Dana Blanchard, and Tom Goodrich; Dick and Tom wore pajamas and Dana sported a charming red-flannel night-shirt. Interrupting the singers, the groggy trio claimed they were camping under the stage so they could get good seats for an up-coming Glee Club concert. After getting the plug across to the school, the three twisted their way out the back of the auditorium, accompanied by the same rousing musical effort.

"Oooo, Sir, my contact lenses popped out!"

"Really, Jim—" asked Mr. Preston.

"Would I kid you, Sir?" asked Jim Scialabba innocently. Without any coaxing, the other members of the class, who had been taking out paper for a Dictée, got on their hands and knees and started to look for the lenses which had allegedly popped out. After ten minutes of non-productive looking, the bell for the end of the period rang, and, surprisingly enough, just about then, Jim said he found the lenses. At that, everyone left the room before any questions were asked.

"Here it is, Mr. Wrigley." This greeting sounds harmless enough, but when Mr. Wrigley looked up, he almost toppled off his stool. A few minutes before, Mr. Wrigley had sent Jim Scialabba to another room for a piece of chalk. When Jim returned to the room, he had the new piece of chalk in his mouth, and was holding a lighted match at the tip of it. Upon seeing one of his "more reliable" students lighting up what seemed to be a cigarette, Mr. Wrigley (who had just recovered from mononucleosis) turned green and red at the same time. When he realized it was just a piece of chalk, Mr. Wrigley just sat and stroked his chin, but no one remembers which chin he was stroking.

In a very serious and very proud vein the Sixth Form is honored to have two Merit Scholarship Winners as members of its class. For the first time in the history of Hopkins the school has two winners — Steven Gompertz and Jonathan Huie. Our school has had finalists before but never any winners. It is a great tribute to these two young men to have earned these scholarships and the rest of the Sixth Form smiles with them with the conviction that they will prove themselves even more deserving in the years to come.

"The Harmonaires of '62-'63 are the biggest collection of Snowmen in the history of Hopkins Grammar School."

We really don't know who said this, or where it was said, or even if it was said, but it's probably true.

Peter Beeson, the pitchpipe for this year, put the group through its paces and managed to be free enough to entertain audiences with "Slap That Base," one of the most popular selections performed this year. He also managed to entertain the other Harmonaires by turning a bright red every time he hit the final high note of "Slap That Base."

In the beginning of the year the group sang "Sand In My Shoes" with Tom Goodrich singing the solo. At their performance at Oxford School For Girls, Tom forgot one of the lines, and, not long after that, the group forgot the entire song — abandoning it completely.

One of the popular standards which the group sang on almost every occasion was "George Jones" with Keith Cunningham as the soloist. While Keith was in Colorado during the Christmas vacation, Dana Blanchard sang the solo, keeping up the high standards set by Keith and the Harmonaires.

After abandoning "Sand In My Shoes," the Harmonaires learned another song, "Georgia On My Mind," in which Tom Goodrich again sang the solo. It was first performed at the Northampton School For Girls, where it was accepted very enthusiastically by the audience of one hundred girls . . . they were swooning in the aisles.

Other numbers which were performed by the Harmonaires include "Toot Toot Tootsie, Goodby", "The Animals Are Coming"; "Solomon Levi"; "Way Down Yonder"; "Daddy Get Your Baby Out of Jail"; and "Slow Motion Time."

Because of, or perhaps in spite of, the entertaining Saturday morning and Sunday afternoon rehearsals (attended by Mr. Richmann, a varying number of Harmonaires, and Gidget, Mr. Richmann's white poodle), the Harmonaires of '62-'63 produced a quality of music which always pleased audiences and usually pleased even the boys themselves.

The end of the year approaches and the third period Physics Honors class is allowed to write up its own experiment for the last lab period of the course.

"We'll make a test of ballistics," decides Bob Sheahan.

"O.K., we can use Mr. Mulholland as the target!" Frank Loehmann suggests.

Then Chris Komisarjevsky says, "Start with a BB and work up . . . BB, pellet, 22 . . ."

"I'll get you before you get me!" retorts Mr. Mulholland.

"O.K., then we'll start with a .45 and work down!" answers Chris.

"During the days of prohibition our house was used as a distillery. The man who ran the distillery pretended to produce distilled water, but down in the basement he made his own gin. He called his company the Sterling Beverage Co., and right now you can see the old pipes which were used in distilling the gin. Well, the bootlegger had a good business in the 20's until the police began to get curious . . . he didn't ship enough distilled water to avoid suspicions. One evening he decided the police were "too close for comfort" and he went into the barn and hung himself from the top beam . . ."

Such was the story Chris Komisarjevsky told to the small party which had gathered at his house after the April record hop. Soon thereafter everyone had willingly trekked into the field to "check and see if the horses hadn't gotten out." As they all approached the barn by a roundabout route, Tom Goodrich and Dick Ferguson just happened to notice a light flashing in the top of the barn.

"There it goes again!" everyone exclaimed with wonder and a little bit of fright. No one would come near the barn as the light flashed on and off in irregular spurts. None of the horses would even come inside the ring . . .

"Horses have a foreboding . . . they won't come near death!"

Everybody stood their distance outside of the barn. There in the open window, high up in the barn, something was hanging by a rope. The outline could barely be seen as the light flickered on and off.

Everyone asked Chris what it was; he said he had never seen it before. Big Al Walker decided that we all should go inside and have a look . . .

"This couldn't be a joke. Chris didn't know we would all be coming with him to check the horses. He didn't know we would all come out with him," Al continued, giving the three pranksters — Chris Komisarjevsky, Tom Goodrich, and Dick Ferguson — the alibi they were looking for.

The tension and fright mounted with each suggestion of entering the barn. The boys would cautiously approach the barn and their girls would slowly follow behind; then the boys would run away from the barn and the girls would come screaming after them. So it went on for almost an hour, until Chris suggested that we call the police because it was very often that a squad car was sent to guard his barn whenever anyone escaped from the reformatory.

After faking a call to the Cheshire police, Chris was standing in the dining room talking with his "guests" when suddenly the front door opened and in wandered Chris's brother.

"I've had it! I've been out there too long! I'm pooped!" he declared!

Mr. George Gillespie is well-known on campus as an English teacher and a track coach. Recently, however, the students have become aware of the fact that Mr. Gillespie is also a talented artist.

While this was something of a revelation to the student body as a whole, Mr. Gillespie's ability has not been hidden by any means. After attending numerous art classes at the Art Student League in New York City and at the Art Institute of Chicago, Mr. Gillespie submitted his portfolio to the editor of HARPER'S and was asked to illustrate a story.

In 1948, he started to teach, and was at four other country day schools before he came to Hopkins.

This year, Mr. Gillespie has agreed to do a section of sketches for the PANTAGRAPH depicting the various every day activities at Hopkins. The PANTAGRAPH is very grateful and really appreciates the time and effort which Mr. Gillespie has put into his work.

WHAT IS A CAREER?

A career, if it is to lead to a full life, is doing what you most want to do regardless of money.

In order to have such a career, it means that each of us must be willing to throw everything we have into learning the tools of the trade or profession we choose. Niels Bohr, the great Danish scientist, who died last November and who, with Einstein, opened the key to our universe, was being introduced when he was awarded the Nobel Prize. The man introducing him called him a genius. When Dr. Bohr walked forward to receive the prize, he said:

"If I am a genius, before that I was a drudge."

There is a lot of drudgery in building a worthwhile career.
